

Interreg turns 30: Take part in the celebrations

When life returns to normal, we will celebrate together

2020 is the year in which Interreg turns 30. For three decades, our funding has brought together people beyond borders to work on common solutions for common problems. Our cooperation projects have built trust and overcome prejudice. We are convinced that #cooperationiscentral also in times ahead of us: It will help developing and testing the best European, national and regional responses to the aftermath of this crisis and prepare us better for future ones. Apply the visual branding elements now and spread the news that we are #30yearsTogether.

EU Regions Week: Apply by 17 April and present your results

The EU Regions Week is a good opportunity for your project to show how you are helping central European regions and cities to become better and more resilient places. This annual event will take place from 12-15 October in Brussels. It brings together around 8 000 regional policy stakeholders from across Europe. Find out how to become part of EU Regions Week 2020 on our dedicated information page. You can organise a session about your project. Or apply to become a REGIOSTAR. Or put up a good show on stage to win the Interreg project slam. Deadlines for the activities vary but they are approaching fast. Get ready to join.

Download and share our PORTRAITS of your projects

Our programme community has grown by nine new projects. They started earlier this year to "capitalise through coordination" on existing transnational results. You can learn more about them in our PORTRAITS factsheets. We also updated all other factsheets so that there are now 138 project PORTRAITS in total. These can be

IMPROVING THE MANAGEMENT OF HERITAGE SITES

Interreg CENTRAL EUROPE For Heritage

Damaged and neglected historical buildings are a common sight in many central European regions. Often, multi-partnership local management is needed to ensure better care for these sites. This factsheet supports local and regional authorities in their quest to joining local work and experiences into practice. By focusing on management, the project builds capacity in various regions to help key actors to exploit different funding sources for renovating neglected sites and buildings.
